

FRANKLIN E. BILLERBECK

Biographical Sketch

Franklin Billerbeck brings over 16 years of teaching and communication experience to bring you an informative, motivating and fun-filled training experience designed to deliver the results you expect.

Currently an instructor of Communication Skills at Waukesha County Technical College, he has taught courses in Workplace Communication, Public Speaking, Written Communication, Oral/Interpersonal Communication, Basic Grammar, and College Success Skills, as well as Argumentation and Critical Thinking.

An award winning intercollegiate speaker and former assistant coach for the University of Wisconsin-Madison intercollegiate speech and debate team, Franklin also held positions in customer service and the hospitality industry. He provided congregational evangelism and outreach training and organized, directed and recruited volunteers for door-to-door surveys.

Franklin draws upon a multifaceted writing background encompassing popular, legal, and academic writing, including work as copy editor for Rhetorica: The Journal of the International Society for the History of Rhetoric and editor for Anglican/Orthodox Pilgrimage (Conciliar Press).

Franklin holds a J. D. and an M. A. (Communication Arts) from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, an M. Div. from St. Tikhon's Theological Seminary and a B. A. (Speech) from the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire. He is very much enjoying a new lease on life after receiving a kidney/pancreas transplant at UW-Madison Hospitals in November 2005.

October 31, 2007

F:\DATA\Busind\Biographies\Billerbeck, Franklin\Billerbeck, Franklin.doc